

The Starter Meal Plan

Eat for your goal without counting every crumb. Simple rules, a full week of meals.

Nutrition is simpler than the internet makes it sound. Get three things right — calories, protein, and consistency — and your body will change. Here is exactly how.

Step 1 — Find your daily calories

A quick estimate (Mifflin-St Jeor). Use your weight in kg and height in cm:

- Men: $(10 \times \text{kg}) + (6.25 \times \text{cm}) - (5 \times \text{age}) + 5$, then $\times 1.4$ for a lightly active day.
- Women: $(10 \times \text{kg}) + (6.25 \times \text{cm}) - (5 \times \text{age}) - 161$, then $\times 1.4$.
- To lose fat: subtract 500. To build muscle: add 300. To maintain: leave as is.

EVEN SIMPLER

Fat loss: about 24-26 kcal per kg of bodyweight. Maintenance: 30-32. Muscle gain: 34-36. Use the free Meal Plan generator on the website to get your exact numbers.

Step 2 — Hit your protein

Protein keeps you full and protects muscle. Aim for roughly 1.6–2.0 grams per kg of bodyweight per day. Put a protein source in every meal.

Step 3 — Follow the plate rule

- Half your plate: vegetables and fruit.
- A quarter: a protein (eggs, chicken, fish, paneer, tofu, lentils, Greek yogurt).
- A quarter: a smart carb (rice, roti, oats, potatoes, quinoa).
- A thumb of healthy fat (nuts, olive oil, ghee in moderation).

Your grocery starter list

- Protein: eggs, chicken, fish, paneer, tofu, lentils/dal, chana, Greek yogurt, milk.
- Carbs: oats, brown rice, roti/atta, potatoes, quinoa, fruit.
- Veg: spinach, mixed vegetables, salad greens, tomatoes, onions.
- Fats: almonds, peanut butter, olive oil, seeds.

Five rules that do 90% of the work

- Protein with every meal.
 - Vegetables with two meals a day.
 - Drink water before you snack — thirst feels like hunger.
 - Cook more than you eat out.
 - Be 90% consistent, not 100% perfect. Progress beats perfection.
